NOTICES BY THE GENERAL BOARD

Committee of Management for the Psychological and Behavioural Sciences Tripos

Following the establishment of the Psychological and Behavioural Sciences Tripos with effect from 1 October 2013 (Reporter, 6230, 2010–11, p. 958), a Committee of Management for the Tripos was constituted. The membership and terms of reference of the Committee are detailed on the Faculty of Biology website (<http://www.biology.cam.ac.uk/governance/strat-com/pbs>). The governance structure of the Tripos has subsequently changed and the Committee's main function is now to advise the Faculty Board of Biology and the Council of the School of the Biological Sciences on the management of the Tripos.

REGULATIONS FOR EXAMINATIONSExamination in Environmental Policy for the M.Phil. Degree

(Statutes and Ordinances, p. 507)

With effect from 1 October 2017

The General Board has, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee of the Department of Land Economy, approved an amendment to the regulations to allow for the word 'pathway' to be added to core modules under Regulations 1 and 2(b).

By amending the second sentence of Regulation 1 so as to read:

The list shall include a research methods module, two pathway core modules, and no fewer than four optional modules (the Degree Committee may specify that a candidate shall offer one or more specific modules).

By amending Regulation 2(b) so as to read:

- (b) two pathway core modules;

Examination in Land Economy for the M.Phil. Degree

(Statutes and Ordinances, p. 514)

With effect from 1 October 2018

The General Board has, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee of the Department of Land Economy, approved an amendment to the regulation so as to cover the progression hurdles required to proceed to the examination.

By adding the following sentence:

In order to proceed to the examination, candidates must satisfactorily attend and participate in the Department's Research Methods modules, as prescribed by the Degree Committee.

Examination in Land Economy Research for the M.Phil. Degree

(Statutes and Ordinances, p. 514)

With effect from 1 October 2017

The General Board has, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee of the Department of Land Economy, approved amendments to the regulations so as to reflect current practice.

By amending Regulation 2(a) and 2(b) so as to read:

- (a) one research methods essay of not more than 4,000 words;
- (b) one core or two optional modules chosen by the candidate with the approval of the Degree Committee from the list of modules published under Regulation 1;

By adding Regulation 4:

4. In order to proceed to the final examination, candidates must satisfactorily attend and complete the following, as prescribed by the Degree Committee:

- (a) six modules run by the Social Sciences' Research Methods Centre (SSRMC).

With effect from 1 October 2018

The General Board has, on the recommendation of the Degree Committee of the Department of Land Economy, approved an amendment to the regulations so as to remove the option of a written examination.

By amending the second sentence in Regulation 1 so as to read:

In publishing the list the Degree Committee shall announce the method of examination of each module which may include a long essay, shorter essays, project work, or a combination of these; they shall specify the limits to be placed on the length of any essays and project work.

Examination in Planning, Growth, and Regeneration for the M.Phil. Degree

NOTICES BY FACULTY BOARDS, ETC.

Examination in Conservation Leadership for the M.Phil. Degree, 2017–18

The Degree Committee for the Faculty of Earth Sciences and Geography gives notice that the modules available for examination for the degree of Master of Philosophy in Conservation Leadership in 2017–18, and the form of examination of each module, shall be as follows:

Compulsory modules

Reference	Name	Mode of assessment
CL1	Conservation problems and practice	coursework
CL2	Conservation enterprise	essay
CL3	Conservation management	exercise
CL4	Communicating conservation	exercise
CL5	Conservation governance	essay
CL6	Innovation for conservation leadership	coursework
	Placement report	report

Examination in Scientific Computing for the M.Phil. Degree, 2017–18

The Degree Committee for the Faculty of Physics and Chemistry gives notice that the following papers are available for examination for the degree of Master of Philosophy in Scientific Computing in 2017–18:

Paper 1:	Fundamentals in numerical analysis
Paper 2:	Numerical integration and ordinary differential equations
Paper 3:	Numerical differentiation and partial differential equations
Paper 4:	Linear systems
Paper 5:	Electronic structure
Paper 6:	Atomistic modelling of materials
Paper 7:	Machine learning

Candidates should choose a minimum of three papers.

Papers 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, and 7 will be examined by a two-hour written examination consisting of three questions, of which candidates will be required to answer two.

Paper 5 will be examined by a two-hour written examination consisting of four questions.

At the discretion of the Course Director, students may also be able to choose options available under other Masters' Degrees offered by the Departments of the Schools of the Physical Sciences, Technology, and Biological Sciences.

Examination in Physical Science (Nanoscience and Nanotechnology) for the M.Res. Degree, 2017–18

The Degree Committee for the Faculty of Physics and Chemistry gives notice that the modules available for examination for the degree of Master of Research in Physical Science (Nanoscience and Nanotechnology) in 2017–18, and the form of examination for each module, shall be as follows:

NE.01	Characterization techniques	Core	Examination
NE.04	Nanofabrication techniques	Core	Examination
NE.05	Nanomaterials	Core	Examination
NE.06	Nanochemistry	Core	Examination
NE.07	Physics at the nanometre-scale	Core	Examination
NE.08	Bionanotechnology	Core	Examination
NE.09	Nanoelectrochemistry	Optional	Examination
NE.10	Energy harvesting	Optional	Examination
NE.11	Nano self-assembly	Core	Examination
Coursework	Science communication in media, business, and research	Core	Coursework
Coursework	Societal and ethical dimensions of micro and nanotechnology	Core	Coursework
Coursework	Nurturing and managing innovation in science	Core	Coursework
Practicals	Practical training course	Core	Coursework
Projects	Mini project I (up to 3,000 words), plus mini-project II (up to 3,000 words), plus midi-project (up to 10,000 words)	Core	Written reports, feedback from supervisors
Proposal	Formulation and defence of a Ph.D. project proposal	Core	Written report, oral presentation, oral examination

The taught modules (NE.xx) are taught in the Michaelmas and Lent Terms and assessed in the Easter Term by two formal written examinations as follows:

Paper 1 – the three-hour examination paper will contain two sections. Candidates will be required to answer questions from both sections:

Section A – answer any three questions. The three questions in total carry one third of the credit for the paper.

Section B – answer any two questions. Each question carries one third of the credit for the paper.

Modules examined are Characterization techniques (NE.01), Nanofabrication techniques (NE.04), Nanochemistry (NE.06), Nanoelectrochemistry (NE.09), and Energy harvesting (NE.10).

Paper 2 – the three-hour examination paper will contain two sections. Candidates will be required to answer questions from both sections:

Section A – answer any three questions. The three questions in total carry one third of the credit for the paper.

Section B – answer any two questions. Each question carries one third of the credit for the paper.

Modules examined are Nanomaterials (NE.05), Physics at the nanometre-scale (NE.07), Bionanotechnology (NE.08), and Nano self-assembly (NE.11).

CLASS-LISTS, ETC.Allowances to candidates for examinations

The Council has made the following allowances to the candidates named below in respect of the examinations shown against their names which were held in the Easter Term 2016.

In accordance with Regulation 3(d) for allowances to candidates for examinations (Statutes and Ordinances, p. 230) the Chairs of Examiners have agreed to remove the following candidates' names from the class originally publicized and include in the class indicated for the Easter Term 2016.
